It's an early April evening. Arun, a 40 year old Sales Manager in an MNC, is in a jovial mood as he drives home from work. As a top performer in the organization, he has been rewarded with a handsome bonus earlier in the day and he has been thinking about what to do with it. He had spent his last few bonuses mostly on vacations. With his retirement looming on the horizon, he wants to use this one to secure his family's long term future. However, he is unable to make up his mind about where he should invest his money.
