Health cannot be taken for granted.

How often have you expressed sympathy for someone who is suffering from a critical illness, while giving little or no thought to the idea of protecting your own health? The truth is that most of us take our health for granted, not realising that with our hectic schedules, fast-paced life and demanding lifestyles, chances of health hazards have increased substantially. The following facts also support it:

- According to the World Health Organization, 60% of the world's cardiac patients will be from India by 2010.
- Every year, there will be 8,00,000 new cancer cases in India as per the National Cancer Registry Programme.

Provide for health care expenses.

A critical illness doesn't come with medical and hospital expenses alone (direct medical expenses), but can also have an adverse effect on your work, resulting in a temporary loss of income. Not only that, there are other expenses related to hospitalization such as travelling, lodging-board and other incidental expenses (indirect expenses) which in some cases can be very substantial, bloating the overall cost of treatment.

Generally, the direct expenses account for 65% of the total cost of treatment while indirect expenses would be as much as 35% of overall cost of treatment*. Thus, you need to provide adequately for cost of treatment, other indirect expenses related to treatment and the loss of income during the treatment period.
